Summary

I'm highly passionate about programming and would be happy to do it for free, but my daily expenses prevent me from doing so.

With my extensive freelancing experience, I'm well-acquainted with clients seeking talented individuals for small and medium-sized projects. I can help bring their startup ideas to life using cutting-edge and stable technologies to drive business growth in today's rapidly changing environment.

Additionally, my experience working with large corporations allows me to seamlessly integrate into teams and bring new ideas to established businesses, while preserving their culture and maintaining system stability while reducing costs.
